VOLUME 2 No. 1

Water line approved - well contaminated

Salt contamination, believed to originate at the township's public works department yard, has prompted Anson, Hindon and Minden council to approve payment for the connection of a home on Bobcaygeon Road North to the municipal water system. The decision was taken at the October 24 meeting of the council.

The owner of the home, Oswald Snell, appeared before the council with his lawyer Fraser Rogers. The council was told that the water at the Snell residence, taken from a nearby private well, has a salty taste. Rogers said that Mr. Snell did not notice any change in the taste in his water, "Perhaps because he became accustomed to the different flavour as it changed gradually."

However, the home owner said visitors to his house said they could notice the salty flavour.

Mr. Snell told the meeting that he had his 56 foot deep well drilled 18 years ago and had not had any problems with the quality of the water until recently. He said that tests of the water indicated it was "unsatisfactory".

Township by-law enforcement officer Dick Schell noted that the council had responded to similar requests from a number of area residents, when they claimed their wells had turned salty. He said the township installed a water line to the homes so the people would no longer have to rely on the wells.

The township public works department stores several large open piles of sand and salt mixture at its yard just west of the Bobcaygeon Road. It has been suggested that rain leeching through the storage piles is carrying the salt into the underground water system and that this is the source of the local contamination.

The Snell residence is the only one in the immediate area of the works yard which is still being served by a well. All others are now connected to the township system.

The resolution authorizing the work indicates the township will be responsible for the new water line up to the residence and that the owner will have to cover the costs of the necessary interior connections.

Council applies for extra funds

The Township of Anson, Hindon and Minden has made application to the Ministry of Transportation and Communications for a supplementary subsidy for road maintenance in the amount of $13,000. The application was approved at the October 24 meeting of the council.

The request comes on the heels of an overexpenditure in the road maintenance department that resulted earlier this year in the temporary lay-off of the entire roads crew. The township would have to commit $7000 to the roads budget, for a total of $20,000, if the MTC approved the additional subsidy.

The October 24 meeting also heard what it already knew from the MTC. A letter from D.A.O. White, district engineer in Huntsville, said that any requests for additional maintenance subsidy would have to be rejected. It suggested that the council apply for a "supplementary allocation", although no commitment was made that the request would be filled.

"The present rate of subsidy, 65%, is considered to be more than adequate, based on the ministry's data," the letter noted.

A second letter from W. D. Ham of the Huntsville MTC office, notified the council that a request to transfer $20,000 from road construction to road maintenance had been approved by the ministry. The money had been originally earmarked for the purchase of a loader and a half-ton truck.

The letter noted that the transfer was only being approved because of the problems encountered by the township with the maintenance budget and was not to be considered MTC policy. It also stated that any request for supplementary funds for the purchase of a loader 'in the near future' will not be approved. Furthermore the letter suggested, "That a realistic road program be set up in 1980 to reflect necessary construction and maintenance operations that council will support, (and) that this planning be carried forward into the following years."

Hallowe'en party

Beverly Emerson takes a mighty swing at the Mexican style pinata during a Hallowe'en party at the Minden playschool Tuesday morning. Other members of the school, costumed for the occasion, and a number of mothers, can be seen cheering on the young slugger. The paper mache balloon was filled with candy which spilled onto the floor once the shell had been cracked.

Committee awaits family

The Minden, Coboconk Refugee Committee is waiting to receive its Vietnamese family, but immigration officials say it may be up to four months before the family finally arrives.

The committee, formed earlier this summer when a number of local congregations expressed a desire to sponsor a family, has now collected close to $12,000 in anticipation of the arrival of the refugees. The chairman of the committee, Reverend Douglas Miller of the Minden United church commented that everything was ready to go, "All that is needed now is the family."

Miller stated that the funds are presently being held in the local bank, with a portion being invested to earn as much interest as possible before it is needed.

He also commented that despite the apparent lull between the collection of the money and now, the committee is still actively preparing for the arrival of the family.

Norland family

A private adoption of a refugee family has been completed by a Norland couple. Mr. and Mrs. Suckling of R.R. 1 Norland received their family of four on Friday.

According to Mrs. Suckling, the family speaks no English and communication has been by sign language. The two youngsters, aged four and six, are getting on well, but the husband had to be admitted to hospital in Peterborough following their arrival.

She also reports that the mother of the family is extremely tired after what was described as "a long ordeal". "They went through a long and difficult journey before arriving here," she said. "It took them 15 months to reach the border in Vietnam, spent 29 days at sea and were in a refugee camp for four months before coming here," she related.

Three brothers

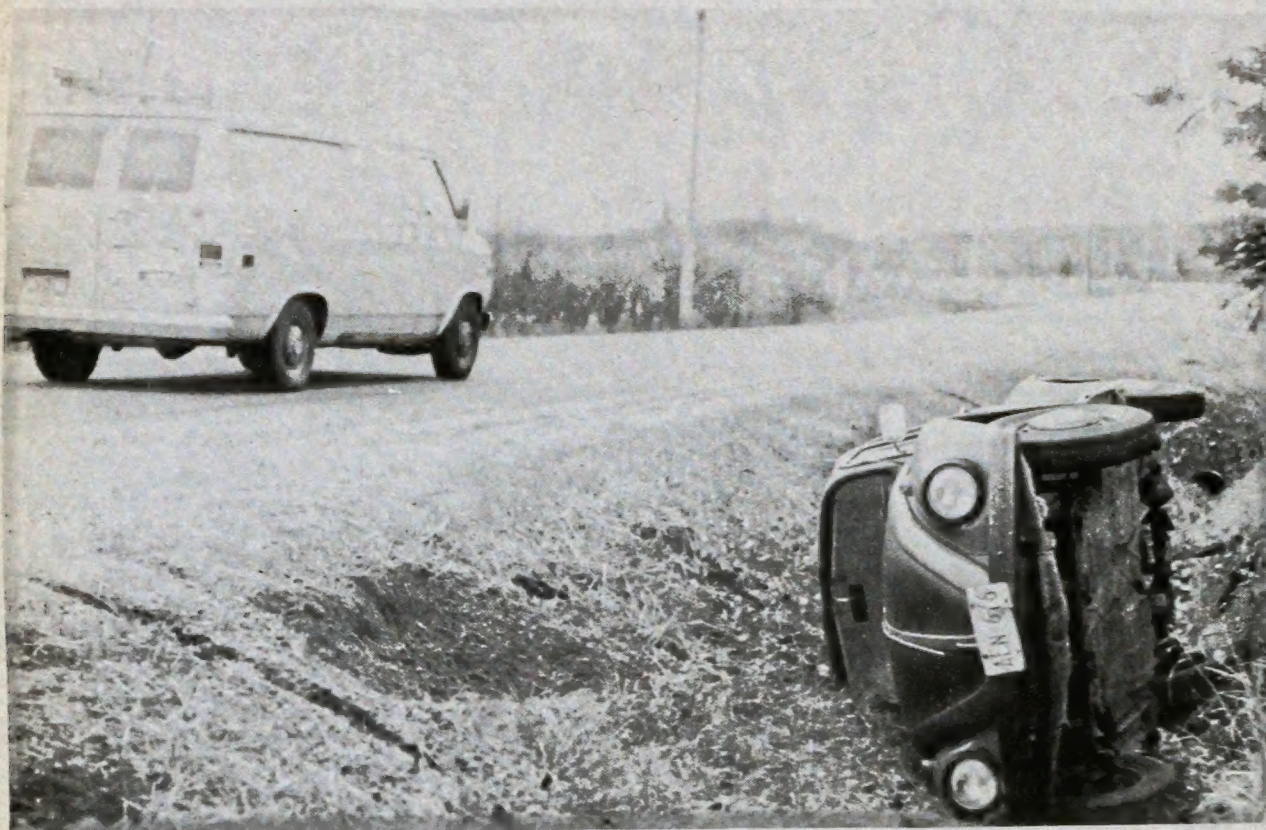

According to a spokesman for the Haliburton refugee committee, which recently sponsored the arrival of three brothers to the community,

Bug rolls

The driver of this 1968 Volkswagen suffered minor injuries after the vehicle left the Deep Bay Road and rolled into the ditch. The mishap took place two miles west of Minden on October 27. Driver of the car was Kathryn Bull of R.R. 2 Minden. The vehicle sustained $600 damage.

Council adds voice to protest

The council of Anson, Hindon and Minden has joined the growing chorus of municipalities objecting to the factors to be used by the province in determining the grants and cost-sharing arrangements. The council, at the October 24 meeting, endorsed a resolution from the Township of West Carlton objecting to the equalization factors. According to the resolution, the changes could result in increases of 100 percent for some local taxes.

A similar resolution received the endorsement of the county Council earlier this month.

In determining certain grants and subsidies to the municipalities, the provincial government has utilized factors based on property values within a municipality. These factors were frozen at the 1970 level, and, according to the province, they do not reflect the change in property values which have taken place in the past decade.

However, the provincial authorities readily admit that with the updating of these factors, some communities may find a drastic drop in the over-all amount of funding received from the province. The result would be to shift the burden for the loss of provincial funding to local taxes. To help cushion any possible drastic change, the province has agreed to limit any shifts in taxation during 1980. During that year municipal taxpayers will be required to absorb only five percent of any new tax burden, with the remaining portion coming, in the form of extra grants, from the province.

The new factors will also result in decreases in the resource equalization grant paid to certain municipalities. The province has agreed to limit any reduction of the grant in 1980 to ten percent. In addition, any increase, if it should occur in the grant will be limited to $10 per capita.

According to the township clerk, Anson, Hindon and Minden will receive $4,000 more in its resource grant next year. However, it was also pointed out that how the new factors will affect other provincial funding for this municipality is still unknown.

Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt commented that before the municipality accepts the new factors, it should be aware of what is going to happen after 1980.

These sentiments were echoed by Councillor Lyle McKnight, "We are aware of what the province has in store for 1980," he commented, "but what happens in 1981 and the following years."

Nesbitt said that the new factors will give the province the opportunity to get out of a number of subsidy areas leaving the municipalities with either less money or the option of increasing taxes.

The reeve said that although the municipality can file its protest with the province, it was difficult to make any concrete objections because the factors, after 1980, are still unknown. "How can we say we object to something when we don't even know what it is?" he asked.

The council agreed to go on record advising the Minister of Intergovernmental Affairs and the Ontario Municipal Board that the municipality is not satisfied that the revised equalization factors are just and equitable, and that information on the factors to be used after 1980 were lacking.

Municipalities have until tomorrow to file objections to the new factors with the provincial government.

Road closing plans change

Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council will proceed with the closing of the old road on the west side of Twelve Mile Lake. The blocking of the road, and the methods used to pass the by-law authorizing the action earlier this year, has drawn the ire of property owners on that side of the lake.

According to Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt, speaking at the October 24 meeting of the council, the new road closing by-law will effectively halt vehicular traffic on the road at the edge of the Hart Lodge property. Efforts will also be made to improve the access, for those cottagers west of the closing point, to a new road which takes traffic south of the Hart Lodge property.

The property owners on the west side of the lake had complained to council earlier this year about the manner in which the old road was closed. They claimed the proper procedures had not been followed before the roadway was closed. The council agreed with the property owners, mostly cottagers, and had the barriers removed from the old road.

The council had then intended to close the former road where it meets the new road, but has since changed

Study needed before approval

The last hurdle in the completion of the Haliburton County Development Strategy may soon be overcome. While the strategy was formally accepted by the County Council at the September meeting, one issue involving the Burns subdivision in Anson Township remained unresolved.

Negotiations between the township of Anson, Hindon and Minden and the Ministry of Housing followed that acceptance and, according to a letter read to the October 24 meeting of the township council, a compromise agreement has been reached.

The letter, from the Ministry of Housing, would allow for the creation of smaller lots within the subdivision than the sizes in the overall strategy. In addition, the density of the subdivision would be set at one unit per acre, with all lots and public areas taken into consideration, in determining the density.

The agreement also states that an adequate supply of water must be available for the lots in the development. To ensure that such is the case, the agreement requires that a hydrological study be carried out prior to the approval of the subdivision.

The council agreed to await the results of this study before granting final approval to the changes in the planning strategy.

by Ron Reid of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists

For years, Toronto Island has been known as the Saw-whet capital of North America. That reputation stems not from some strange musical instrument at the Island's Mariposa festival, but rather from the yearly occurrence of large numbers of Saw-whet Owls, Ontario's smallest and probably most lovable, member of the owl family. Its name comes from one of its notes, which sounds like someone filing a saw.

Each October, hundreds of naturalists participate in owl banding - a curious mixture of scientific study and social outing. This year we joined a group from the Kingston Field Naturalists at Prince Edward Point near Belleville, which is rapidly challenging Toronto for its reputation as owl hot-spot of the continent. Dozens of mist nets, with delicate black threads, are hung like shrouds through thickets of willow and underbrush. When the Saw-whets are moving, with clear skies and a strong northwest wind, they become tangled in the nets and can be retrieved for examination and banding.

Now the scientific comes in.

The tiny owls, barely six inches long, are carefully measured, sexed and weighed. A harmless aluminum band, each with an individual number, is fitted on one leg, and the bird is released to continue its journey. If and when it's recaptured, the numbered band gives a history to add to our knowledge of the species.

But the social aspects of owl banding are important too. Owls must be caught at night, and experienced banders and novices alike participate in the endless ritual of checking the nets - sloshing through puddles by the unsteady beam of a flashlight. When an owl is found, and tediously untangled from the net, it's hard not to be captivated by the little elfin creature that sits so calmly blinking at his captors.

Like most owls, Saw-whets have a radiating ring of feathers around the eyes, called a facial disc, which seems to emphasize their large staring eyes. When they blink, you discover that even their eyelids have feathers! And as one of the banders showed us, Saw-whets have enormous ear-holes hidden among the feathers at the side of the head. The two ears of the Saw-whet differ in shape, so that the skull itself is slightly lopsided, a condition that is extremely rare in animals.

For us, the visit to an owl-banding station was purely social. But to Ron Weir and Fred Cooke, and many other dedicated banders who spend their nights minding the nets, owl-banding is a valuable addition to the pursuit of knowledge about one of our most interesting birds.

the trio is settling into the new routine. Len Creelman said that the youths are learning English in a three hour tutoring session every morning. The tutor is being supplied through the board of education.

In the afternoon the two older brothers have been working at a number of odd jobs in the community while the youngest attends grade six.

The three brothers have contacted other members of their family living in the United States and are aware that their parents are alive and living in a refugee camp in Indo-China.

The trio has applied to join their relatives in the U.S., but no word has been received yet on the status of their application.

Lack of action

It is dangerous and difficult to keep returning to the same subject in these columns, but we feel another serious examination of our efforts as a community to seek a remedy for the problem of acidified precipitation is needed. The danger lies in the complacency and contempt that arises when one hears the same warning over and over again. The repetition tends to dull the keen edge of importance which the topic should have.

In the past few weeks acid rain has dominated the concerns of environmentalists once again as fresh evidence emerged indicating that the potential for damage to the forests, farm crops and terrestrial life was much more serious than originally anticipated. The damage to forest productivity, crop yields and plant life is as serious as the destruction which is predicted for the fish stock and aquatic life which inhabit our lakes and rivers.

The latest report also indicates that the degree with which Ontario sources, with Inco in Sudbury the main culprit, have contributed to the problem, has been underestimated. It seems that while we may still point an accusing finger at our neighbours to the south, we could improve the situation here at home a great deal by cleaning up our own back yard first.

What is particularly disheartening is the seeming lack of reaction from our politicians and business community to these latest revelations, or those which preceded them.

Acid rain is killing our lakes and forests, the two main foundations for our economy (tourism and forestry products). The residents of Haliburton County should be angry. They should be flooding the offices of our MP, MPP, Prime Minister and Provincial Premier with letters demanding action. Township and county councils should be firing off resolutions, gaining the support of other municipalities in the province and across the country. The Chamber of Commerce and the Economic Development Commission should be leading a vanguard of businessmen up in arms over the slow but steady erosion of the basis of their livelihood. Cottage associations should be crying for action before their members find the value of their properties swept out from under their feet.

And perhaps most importantly, these groups should, as well as leading their own individual charge, be co-ordinating a unified effort through one central body, bringing pressure to bear on the two senior levels of government for concrete and quick action to remedy the problem.

For the most part we have instead a state of lethargy. Each new revelation is greeted with a yawn.

Perhaps this attitude can be traced to the magnitude of the problem and that most individuals feel helpless in the face of it. If that is the case for this ostrich-like response, then the only answer is to channel our anger and concern into groups or organizations that can command respect and demand action. Otherwise, we are left like the ostrich with its head in the sand, with only one part of our anatomy to identify the kind of beings we are.

Come on, county council, township councils, Chamber of Commerce, cottagers and people, there is not much time left to show the government that we will not tolerate the decimation of our environment.

Resourcefulness

Here is an interesting picture, taken in the autumn of 1950, that shows the resourcefulness and resources of the people in the Haliburton County area. While Walter Dennison of the people in the Haliburton County area. While Walter Dennison, seen on the wagon, Rolfe Richards the photographer and Hugh Austen were hunting in the autumn of that year, the wheel on their wagon broke. Caught without a spare, the hunters rigged up a crutch for the fourth wheel so they and their bounty of venison, seen at the back of the wagon, could make it home. "The team is gone, the wagon is gone, and so is the deer," comments Hugh Austen, who lent this picture to The Times.

REPORT FROM QUEEN'S PARK

By John Eakins, M.P.P.

The Minister of Community and Social Services has attributed the recovery of improperly paid welfare money to the introduction last year of the eligibility review program, which so far has cost the Ministry $1 million to operate. More than $4.5 million has been regained over the past year through the review which is particularly geared to catching welfare recipients who are no longer eligible for an allowance, or husbands of recipients who are in arrears of court-ordered payments. It can also pick up on administrative blunders by the Ministry that result in over-payments on welfare cheques.

Police chases

The Provincial Secretary for Justice has stated that the Solicitor General's office has asked the Niagara Regional Police for more details about the accident, in which two Port Colborne residents were killed after their car was rammed by a car being chased by the police. Liberal Leader Stuart Smith asked "When are we finally, after years and years of debate and requests in this House, going to get a clear and consistent policy which is understood by all law enforcement officers, that such chases are simply not to occur?"

Resident Fishing licences

The Ontario Cabinet has postponed plans for a resident fishing licence. Various groups have expressed support for the licence which would require Ontario residents to buy a seasonal fishing licence, on the condition that more money be given for fisheries management. Currently, only non-residents must buy a licence to fish.

Registration for mopeds, dirtbikes

The Minister of Transportation has indicated that he wants to require registration of motorized vehicles such as minibikes, mopeds or trail bikes which are used in parks and off the beaten track. He didn't want to go as far as requiring tests for owners before permits are granted, or charging drivers violating the law. Municipal officials, who have been pushing for regulation of the vehicles for years, believe the Minister is not prepared to go far enough.

Soil pollution near elementary school

Eric Cunningham (Lib. Wentworth North) questioned the Minister of the Environment about a company which has been dumping waste containing cadmium into a pit on its property close to an elementary school yard. The Minister said he would give consideration to placing a control order on a Cambridge company.

REPORT FROM PARLIAMENT

by William C. Scott, M.P.

On October 17 the Government tabled Bill C-6, an Act to amend the Old Age Security Act (Spouse's Allowance).

At the present time, individuals aged 60-64 who have a spouse aged 65 or over receiving Old Age Security (OAS) benefits themselves receive a monthly Spouse's Allowance. The maximum current Spouse's Allowance is $3,614.64 per year. However if the older spouse, the old age pensioner, dies, the younger partner's Spouse's Allowance is now cut off after six months. Bill C-6 would allow the younger spouse to continue receiving the Spouse's Allowance after the death of the older partner until she or he reached the age of 65 and qualified in her (or his) own right for the Old Age Security pension. The present means test qualification for the Spouse's Allowance would continue. Common law relationships now qualify on the same basis as legitimate marriages for the Spouse's Allowance and that would remain the same as well.

Currently, if an individual receiving Old Age Security benefits is sentenced to prison for a term exceeding 90 days, he loses his OAS benefits during the time he is in prison. The benefits may be resumed upon release from prison. This restriction applies to beneficiaries of Spouse's Allowance as well. Also under existing law, spouses of prisoners lose their entitlement to Spouse's Allowance. Bill C-6 would amend the Old Age Security Act to allow old age security benefits to continue to pensioners and their spouses if one partner in a marriage is sentenced to prison. The intention of Bill C-6 is to remove some of the present inequities of the Old Age Security Act. In the majority of cases where the Spouse's Allowance is cut off because of the death of the older spouse, the surviving partner is the woman and is not able to re-enter the labour force. The present set-up therefore has the effect of seeming to offer financial benefits and then abruptly removing them at the most critical time, that period following the death of the marriage partner. halloween

Hallowe'en is an interesting practice that has its origins far back in the mists of time.

Scholars believe that Hallowe'en has its roots in an ancient Celtic festival, the "Eve of Samhain". This celebration was held every year on the eve of the Celtic new year, October 31, to commemorate the end of summer. Druids, Celtic priests, used the occasion to pay homage to supernatural powers controlling the seasons.

Among the customs practised on the eve of Samhain, was a great fire ceremony. The souls of the dead were said to revisit their homes on this night; ghosts and demons were believed to haunt their enemies. Huge bonfires were set on hilltops throughout the land.

Students of Celtic culture disagree about the significance of this custom. Some think that the fires were lit to ward off evil spirits, while others maintain their purpose was to guide dead souls to the homes of their kinsmen.

October was a time of threshing and food preparation for the long winter ahead and for the return of herds from pasture. Nuts and apples were the traditional foods. On the eve of Samhain, agents of the supernatural were said to destroy crops and kill farm animals.

The disappearance of infants was also attributed to these agents, or witches.

The future revealed

To these superstitious people, this was thought to be the most favourable time of the year for divinations concerning marriage, luck, health and death. It was the only day on which the help of the devil was invoked for such purposes.

Centuries later, young people in Scotland assembled on October 31 for games of fortune. They played games to ascertain who would marry within a year and in what order, and who would die.

It is the Irish to whom we owe the custom of "trick or treating". Groups of peasants went from house to house demanding food and other gifts in preparation for the "Allhallows Eve" feast. Prosperity was assured to liberal donors, and threats made to stingy ones. Boys and young men often played pranks, overturning carts and blocking roadways.

In Scotland, Wales, England and Ireland, "bob apple" was a popular Allhallows Eve game. Children gathered at the homes of neighbours to play it. Apples were floated in bins of water, or swung by string from a cross. The children tried to grab the fruit with their teeth. Mischievous youngsters played pranks resembling activity associated with witches. Games of divination and fortune-telling were also popular.

The Scots originated our proverbial "jack-o'-lantern", but they used a turnip instead of the pumpkin used today. Death's mask was carved into a hollowed-out turnip and a candle placed inside to make the features glow.

The name "jack-o'-lantern" is synonymous with "will o'the wisp", the mysterious flickering at night on Scottish moors and marshes. The lights are believed to belong to the souls of those rejected by hell. They carry their own hell-coals with them on their wanderings.

Christian influence

As was the custom with the coming of Christianity, the church officials attempted to replace the October 31 pagan festival with a religious ceremony. The Christians were intolerant of devil worship and witchcraft, and felt obliged to obliterate this type of blasphemy.

Consequently, Pope Gregory the Third assigned the title "All Saints Day" to November 1, and established a feast in celebration of his consecration of a chapel in St. Peter's Basilica to all the saints. In 834 A.D. Gregory the Fourth extended the feast to the entire church.

These tactics failed to eliminate the pagan rites, so in 998, Odilo, Abbot of Cluny, made a second effort to Christianize the occasion by instituting in all Cluniac monasteries the feast of All Souls Day on November 2. This feast was in honour of all those who died in the faith. It too, failed to completely eliminate the ancient Samhain festival.

With the suppression of witchcraft and Satan worship, believers were forced underground. These witches formed clans, and held gatherings known as Sabbaths which were given over to feasting and revelry. One of the most important of these Sabbaths was held on Hallowe'en.

On this night, witches were said to be seen flying through the air on broomsticks, accompanied by their constant companions, black cats. It is the accounts of, and mystery surrounding, these gatherings which is the source of much of the folklore about Hallowe'en.

Modern Practices

In recent years, UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund, has attempted to use Hallowe'en to their benefit. Each child who "tricks or treats" is asked to carry with him or her, a small orange and black box in which to collect coins. This money is then sent to needy children in all parts of the world.

Today, Hallowe'en is mainly for youngsters. They arrive at your door each October 31 dressed as clowns, dolls and firemen in addition to the time-honoured costumes of witches, ghosts, skeletons, goblins and demons.

No longer are many pranks played beyond the soaping of windows, as almost everyone gives out goodies without an argument. Some children attend parties organised by their parents, cub group, or brownie pack. Adult parties are rare.

Most of the fear and superstition surrounding the original October 31 celebration has disappeared. But beware if a black cat happens to cross your path. Being more than twenty centuries old, Hallowe'en merits some respect. (with thanks to Melanie Rogers)

Along the Trails

by Roy Bates

Can you imagine what snowmobiling would be like in Haliburton County if the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association suddenly stopped grooming trails? Can you picture the hundreds of unhappy patrons of resorts, motels and lodges trailering their machines home - or to other tourist regions - vowing never to return to these Highlands? I can - and it is not a pretty picture.

In Southeastern Ontario, in an area as large or larger than Haliburton County, a group of snowmobile clubs has already decided that trail grooming is not worth the hassle. Their grooming machines will stand idle this winter. The reason? An acute lack of support from the majority of snowmobilers and snowmobile related businesses.

For too long, too much personal effort and sacrifice have gone into the provision of public trails for an unappreciative public. The bubble has burst. The worm has turned. These clubs are closing the gates on the general public, reverting to private trails open only to members. With the transient traffic removed, trails will hardly need grooming and those that do can be handled easily by the members themselves. And with far less aggravation.

It could happen here! For a number of years, the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association has consistently stepped up its trail development effort, has refined and extended its grooming program, and has widened the scope of its promotion of the region as a snowmobilers' paradise, firmly believing that its efforts would eventually be repaid. It has been issued a bad cheque.

The club membership roster has grown longer it's true, but non-member use of the club's trails has increased at a far greater rate.

Trail users come in two categories. There are the resident snowmobilers who live in the area or who regularly visit their cottages here and there are the visiting snowmobilers who patronize our tourism establishments.

Club membership is made up almost exclusively from the first group, and of this group cottagers appear to be the best supporters - some 60% of last year's roster.

Furthermore, cottage members are the most appreciative of the club and the least critical of the club effort. Renewal rate in this group is exceptionally good. It is estimated that close to 20% of snowmobiling cottagers now support the association as compared with 10% or less of resident snowmobilers - and zero percent of resort patrons.

Considering these facts, the association might reasonably be expected to channel its efforts towards the satisfaction of its members with priorities established according to members' needs or desires. This has not always been the case.

Since its first year of operation, 1971, the association has recognized the potential of the snowmobiler to stimulate the winter economy of Haliburton County. Its campaign to sell Haliburton as Ontario's winter playground continues to this day.

Over the years, many thousands of trail maps in six different editions have been distributed far and wide. National and international snowmobile magazines have re-printed our maps and carried promotional articles of Haliburton to every corner of the North American snowbelt. As a result, groups have come here to enjoy the snowmobiling from New York State, Ohio, Michigan, Quebec, British Columbia, and all parts of Southern Ontario. And I mention only those groups that I have personal knowledge of or have had personal contact with. Had the association been concerned only with member needs, a few hundred Gestetner copies of three or four editions would have been adequate.

When the Ontario Government introduced trail maintenance funding five years ago, the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association came under pressure to forsake its popular lake and portage routes and to develop overland corridor trails which would inter-connect with outlying regions. This move was welcomed by snowmobilers interested in long distance tripping, but it resulted in a loss of membership in those communities and lake regions which could not be served by overland trails.

Even now, the Ministry of Natural Resources is applying pressure for a link with Orillia and an engineer designed bridge over the Irondale River. Such projects as these may fit well into the Ministry's plan for a provincial grid or public trails, but they do not answer to the needs of association members? Like the celebrated Peterson and North trail out of Minden, it is unlikely that they'll every become highly popular. Both, undoubtedly, would provide new avenues of entry for more non-contributing members of the snowmobiling public, now needed like a hole in the head!

The Association's eight year promotional campaign has backfired. Recent developments in the tourism industry indicate that snowmobilers are no longer wanted, except perhaps by a few die-hard operators. The in-thing today is cross-country skiing. It's clean, it's quiet, requires little parking space, and any lodge with an oversized back yard can establish an adequate trail system. Which brings us back to the bad cheque the H.C.S.A. is holding.

For a number of years tourist establishments in this county have profited well from the association's endeavors. That their doors remained open at all, in winter, is largely due to the improvement of trails and the promotional campaign of the association. Without snowmobiling to open up winter for recreation, it is doubtful if cross-country skiing would have caught on and, almost certainly, few resorts would even now be ready for it.

Yes, a fairly substantial debt of gratitude is owed the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association.

And, no, the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association is not about to park its three Bombis. But there is a long winter ahead, a winter that must be met with the full realization that public funding is not going to meet the needs, that only a token support from industry can be expected, and that in the face of inflated fuel prices there is not likely to be any substantial growth in membership numbers.

So we continue to hold your cheque - in the hope that you who owe the association, whether it be for your riding pleasures on good groomed trails or for the current success of your business operation, will make it good. If you do, we'll have no need to plow the parking lot!

will remove this inequity and allow Spouse's Allowance to continue until the individual qualifies for the Old Age Security pension.

In the case of imprisonment it is nevertheless double punishment to be imprisoned and lose benefits simultaneously. This amending bill, C-6, will rectify this inequity as well.

Bill C-6 fulfills an election promise made by the Progressive Conservative Party during the May 22 election. The continuation of the Spouse's Allowance after the death of the elder spouse was supported by the PC party in the last parliament (when the Liberal government compromised on a six-month extension) and was part of the PC party's election platform.

Official opening

Ron Barr, left, of the Kinsmen Club of South Algonquin flashes a broad grin as Glamorgan Reeve Robert Fotheringham, centre, and Victoria Haliburton MPP John Eakins unveil a plaque at the entrance to the ParticiPark in Gooderham. The park, a joint project of the Kinsmen, Sun Life of Canada and Participation, was opened Saturday afternoon. The park includes a series of trails with exercise stations at various points.

From the hack

by Dwight Thomas

A fun night this Saturday evening will open the 1979-80 curling season for the Minden Curling Club.

The night has been billed as strictly a social event to give new curlers, former club members and others an opportunity to get ready for the upcoming season. The festivities start at 8 p.m. at the Curling Club, Bobcaygeon Road North and an invitation has been extended to anyone interested in curling to attend.

There will be a new innovation in the scheduling for this season. The curling year will be divided into three separate schedules.

The first section runs from November 5 to December 21, schedule 2 from January 1 to February 15 and the last section from February 18 to April 4. There will be a play-off at the end of each section with the championship teams meeting at the end of the season for the club championship. The executive hopes this schedule will be much more flexible.

Anyone interested in curling this year should contact Penny Obee at 286-1242 or Ron Reid at 489-2431.

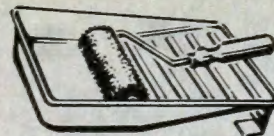

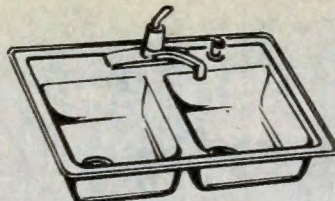

Three for the money

Vivid proof that the Kinsmen Clubs of Canada do not discriminate on the basis of race, colour, creed or the number of legs, was offered Saturday at the official opening of the ParticiPark in Gooderham. This unidentified Kinsmen was doing a fancy three-step when our cameras caught him lurking at the back of the crowd.

High school honours

Parents, relatives, teachers and fellow students crowded into the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Saturday evening to pay tribute to the outstanding students of the 1978-79 academic year.

The night is an annual event offering an opportunity to formally recognize those students who achieved excellence in all aspects of school life. For the students who graduated from H.H.S.S. last June, the evening offers one last chance to return to their alma mater. Kin corner

It has been a busy fall for the Minden Kinsmen Club.

The activities started Thanksgiving weekend when the club sponsored the Demolition Derby. On October 12, eight members of the club travelled to Oshawa for the annual fall council of District 8. Those attending the meeting had an opportunity to hear an excellent public speaker and meet the founder of the Association of Kinsmen, Hal Rodgers. Mr. Rodgers formed the first chapter of the group in Hamilton in 1920.

This year the Kinsmen Club of Minden will be holding its meetings at the Loreale Lodge, owned by Kinsmen member Ed Elias and his wife Bev.

Club members now have marathon tickets for sale. The prizes will follow the same format as last year with $100, $30 and $20 prizes each month and a grand prize of $1000 in June. All proceeds will go toward community projects supported by Kinsmen.

SENIOR LEAGUE

by Linda English

Thursday afternoon the ladies of Lutterworth Estates brought a delicious variety of sandwiches and cookies for the Birthday Tea Party. Special guests of honour this month were Ethel Mac Donald, Bertha Dawson, Sarah

Simmons, Thomas Harrison and Niilo Mankinen. The ladies presented these very special people with a beautifully decorated Birthday cake, and everyone joined together to sing Happy Birthday. As always, everyone enjoyed their afternoon at the tea party. After the tea party, many people stayed in the lounge for the monthly Residents Council Meeting. The executive, namely Viola Deumo and Irene Burns told the residents what they had learned at the seminar in Shelburne, on Tuesday. New ideas and suggestions were discussed and voted on. Our Residents Council is very active here, and it makes for better communication between residents and staff and makes Hyland Crest a better place in which to live.

small change into the slot as it is to put it in your pocket. All money raised through this campaign goes to research for a cure for cystic fibrosis and to assist with the care of those children afflicted with the disease.

Six members of the Minden Club and their wives were in Wilberforce October 6 for the Zone C fall interclub meeting. The Kinsmen of South Algonquin were the hosts for the meeting. Included in the day's activities was the official opening of the Participark which the Kinsmen of South Algonquin constructed in Gooderham. A dinner and dance followed at the Lloyd Watson Memorial Centre.

Looking ahead, the Kinsmen will be sponsoring a Turkey Shoot this Sunday at the Haliburton Gun Club Range on Bobcaygeon Road north. And, on November 10 the Hunters Ball will be held at the Minden Community centre.

Any young men in the area who are interested in attending a Kinsmen meeting should contact a Kinsmen member for more information.

AROUND THE TOWN

by Jeanne Sears

Did you remember to put your clock or watch back Saturday night as Standard Time began for the winter?

Sincere sympathy goes to the families and friends of the late Mrs. Wallace Scott, Margaret McCallum and Clare Douglas (Kinnmount) whose funerals were since last week.

All their friends send good wishes to Dora Dawson and Warner Casey who have been patients at St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough.

Lottie Edwards of Toronto visited last week with her mother Della Griffin.

Weekend guest with Mr. & Mrs. Angus Coulter was their son Gerald Coulter of Toronto.

Dorothy Bethune and Cora Upton of Uterston spent the weekend with the Floyd Millers and visited other relatives as well.

Don't forget these people at Hyland Crest who have birthdays in November Edith Allcorn, 8th, Gladys Dennis, 10th, Olive Tyler, 14th, Pearl Elstone, 21st and Jessie Walter, also on the 21st. Perhaps a visit or phone call or if too far away, a card with good wishes.

At the weekly Mini Card party at the Parish Hall last Thursday afternoon winners for bridge were Diane Warnes, for cribbage Vera Ward, and Gladys Wruth, for euchre lone hands Johann Beattie, Pearl Cowen and Betty Turner.

Mr. & Mrs. Harvey McIntosh spent a short while visiting relatives in Timmins.

The Don Halls were in Toronto over the weekend as they were attending a conference.

Some of the branch librarians from the Haliburton County system learned a great deal at the Regional Workshop at Lindsay Library last Wednesday, topic was local history, indeed an interesting subject.

If you could arrange to be in Lindsay on November 10, be sure to drop in at Red Cross Headquarters on Cambridge Street North, between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. for their Christmas Bazaar. This is sponsored jointly by Lindsay and Minden Branches and there will be a display of handwork for your gifts and proceeds from sales will go to the Red Cross Disaster Fund.

We had several inquiries as to where people can obtain wheelchairs by saving empty cigarette packages, and on asking around, if these people call the District High School they have the details.

Coming event is the Annual Turkey Dinner at St. Paul's Parish Hall on November 7, from 5 - 7 p.m., drop in for a grand dinner.

Mr. & Mrs. H. Shorter have their daughter from Florida visiting them, and you guessed it, she found our weather very cold.

The Minden Curling Club is holding an open house 'Fun Night' at the clubhouse this Saturday, November 3, at 8 p.m. Bring a friend, come out and have a good time. If you are interested in curling, give Penny Obee a call at 286-1242, or Ron Reid at 489-2431. Curling is expected to begin next week.

District Horticultural meeting will take the form of a pot luck supper at St. Paul's Parish Hall, Tuesday November 6 at 6:30 p.m. Bring your own plate and cutlery - so little washing up to do.

Grace and Harry Earle are home after a holiday with relatives in Newfoundland.

Some rainy days and then some snow, most disagreeable, roads are very slippery when rain just starts, so drive carefully. Cheerio until next time.

Redmen trounce Bulldogs

It was cold Thursday afternoon at HHSS.

It wasn't a "must" game for the Haliburton High School Redmen last Thursday, but that didn't stop the squad from pouring on the steam and trouncing the visiting Bulldogs from Brock High School, 27-1.

The Redmen were already assured of a spot in the championship game, which has been scheduled for Thursday in Lakefield.

HHSS football player Al Northey is carried from the field after suffering stretched ligaments during the game. Coach Greg Browman, Casey Cox (58), Shaun Chapman (12) and Jim Kellett lend a hand with the injured player. Northey will be out of action for the remainder of the season.

An unidentified Bulldog lunges for the ball as Redmen Mike Pearson (31), Rick Choy (47), and Ed Roberts (58) move in, just in case the pass is complete.

Machine vs. moose

Cars and moose don't mix, no matter what colour the car is. That fact was proven October 24 when Constable Jim Solway of the Minden OPP was on patrol in a cruiser on Highway 503 near Furnace Falls.

As he rounded the corner, the officer noticed a cow and calf crossing the road. He was able to avoid a collision with the larger animal, but struck the calf, killing it. The constable suffered minor injuries in the mishap and the police car sustained $700 damage.

The collision was investigated by Corporal Ron Foran.

Police have charged Oug with having no licence plates on the vehicle he was driving.

Constable Barry Connelly investigated the accident.

and failing to appear for court were withdrawn by the Crown.

Sentencing

David Asselin, 22, of R. R. 1 Minden has been sentenced to two years less a day in a provincial institution after he pleaded guilty to a charge of break and enter. The sentencing took place October 24 in Lindsay Provincial Court before Judge George Inrig.

The man had been charged with breaking into the Tallpines Browndale School near Carnarvon October 1. $175 in property was removed from the building.

Other charges against Asselin, including theft, possession of stolen property

Missing hunter

The season for hunting is here, and that means it is the time of the year the OPP receive reports of hunters missing in the bush.

Donald Best, 43, of Rexdale was one of those hunters to have lost his way this past weekend. The man entered the bush Saturday afternoon from the Pine Springs Road, and was reported missing at about 8:30 p.m. by his companions.

He was located the following morning by Constables Dennis Potter and Al Barnes, who were on patrol on the road leading to Austin Lake. The man was in good condition.

Farm news & views

The weather of the past week has removed most of the leaves from deciduous trees in the Kawarthas. However, in many fence rows and along the roadsides, there are numerous large shrubs still bearing green leaves.

Most of these shrubs are buckthorn bushes, and the buckthorn is one of our serious noxious weeds.

These buckthorn are the alternate host for leaf rust on oats. If there are no buckthorn growing in an area, then leaf rust will not be a problem disease on oat crops.

Where buckthorn are present, rust can seriously reduce oat yields. And in Victoria and several surrounding counties, these buckthorn are growing in large numbers.

Check around your farm this week for shrubs with green leaves. If they have black berries and a small thorn on the tips of branches, they are buckthorn. Removing these shrubs will cut down on rust problems in your oat fields next year.

Over-tilling

A number of Victoria county farmers need to reconsider their fall tillage practices.

With the price of tractor fuels today, few farmers can justify the cost of double plowing or of discing or cultivating fields after they have fall plowed.

The cost of plowing an acre of land is approximately double the cost of discing or cultivating. Thus, farmers who shallow plow their grain fields early in the fall then deep plow later on, are spending one-third more money to do this job, than those farmers who disc the grain field after harvest, then plow it once later.

There is absolutely no need to work up a field after it has been fall plowed. During the winter the frost does an excellent job of breaking up large lumps of soil, and giving you a good soil structure for next year's crop. Working a plowed field in the fall can cause compaction problems which the winter frosts cannot correct.

THANK YOU to all our customers who helped make our 9th Anniversary Sale a success.

Meet on curve

Two people were taken to Haliburton Red Cross Hospital for treatment of minor injuries following a two vehicle accident October 27. The mishap occurred on the Rock Lake Road in Monmouth Township.

Injured were Kenneth Oug, 20, of Markham and James Dobson, also 20 of Unionville. Oug was driving a 1975 motorcycle when he rounded a curve and collided with an oncoming car driven by Joseph Pelyhe, 52, of Willowdale. The Pelyhe vehicle sustained $300 damage while the motorcycle had $400 damage reported.
